A MORE BALANCED APPROACH.

Balancing your IT needs for today and tomorrow.

Since 2002, Prismworks has provided creative, comprehensive and cost-effective technology solutions to clients in education, government, and business.

Our focus is solely on enhancing your existing infrastructure for short-term demand as well as long-term growth. We're relationship oriented, with an emphasis on listening to you, then sharing our knowledge and finding the best possible solutions for your unique needs.

At Prismworks, we work closely with your own technology professionals and actual users to develop systems designed to grow seamlessly and affordably. And we bring thought leadership to the table, as well. We're continually monitoring new technologies and trends, sharing those that could have an impact on the way you do business.

In short, Prismworks can work with you as a trusted partner, building the same long-term relationships that have helped many of the region's corporations, school districts, and governments grow and prosper.

Prismworks will find the right balance for you.

Whether you're a school district or government struggling with shrinking budgets, or a business seeking smarter, more cost-effective ways to grow, you'll benefit from the consultative expertise of Prismworks. We'll be happy to show you how.

>> Let's sit down and talk!

Tell us what you're looking for, and our IT engineers will help you find solutions to balance your need for growth and your budget.

A more balanced approach to your ever changing needs.

A successful bank opens eight new branches. A school district needs to improve the learning experience for students and their parents. A state government wants to reduce long lines at their motor vehicle agencies.

But then there's the matter of the budget.

It seems as if every week, new technologies become available that will increase productivity, enhance satisfaction and reduce long-term costs. But these technologies come with costs – and not all of them are monetary.

Do you really need to purchase the latest and greatest hardware? Do you really need complicated software for each task?

Maybe. And maybe not.

At Prismworks, our consultants are IT engineers, not salespeople.

We thoroughly understand your need to stay ahead of the technology curve without sacrificing your budgets. Our certified specialists bring more than 40 years of experience to your school district, government, or business – and we begin by listening to what you need today and tomorrow. Working closely with your own IT specialists, we'll find new and creative ways to make sure you're ready to keep up with whatever comes your way. And when we do make a recommendation, you can be sure that the products have been carefully vetted to meet your needs, without bells and whistles you may not need.

>> Growth happens.

Not just in your own organization,
but throughout your community.
We'll help you prepare for it.

>> Get rid of the clutter.

By consolidating your server and desktop hardware you can take your business into the cloud – with significant savings and simplified management!

Comprehensive services...creative solutions.

Is it possible to have too much technology? The simple answer is "yes."

The past few years have brought revolutionary changes in the way we all use technology. Cloud-based services are reducing the need to purchase and maintain expensive hardware on site. Virtualization is drastically changing the way networks are built, managed, and accessed. And mobile services come with their own unique benefits – and issues.

But which approaches are best for your needs? How do you compare one technology to another to determine which is best for your organization and the way you work?

Prismworks' experts are motivated by solving challenges than selling products. Our IT engineers offer 40 years of combined experience in design, implementation, and use of advanced technologies. We begin by meeting with all relevant stakeholders to see what's working and what needs improvement. Then, we find out which tasks your own staff can handle comfortably, and which may be suited for managed services. Finally, we develop the best solutions to allow you to work more effectively -- and save money.

From comprehensive network assessments and enhanced communication software to superb backup and recovery systems and ongoing support, Prismworks will become your trusted "go-to" partner for all of your IT needs, including:

- Infrastructure services
- IT assessment
- System integration
- Desktop deployment
- Wireless services
